INTRODUCTION

The following pages are submitted as a progress report on research done on my Hanes ancestry, in the hope that those who read it will make suggestions, corrections and additions, so that a more nearly complete history of the family can be written. Will you please write your suggestions and corrections to:

Mrs. C. F. Foster
Route 1
Elburn, Illinois

The library copies are provided with extra sheets of blank paper at the end for addition of notes and corrections by readers. Please give source of information and refer to specific page where mistake or omission occurs. I have also added some queries at the end, with regard to records which I have not been able to identify with our Hanes family, but which someone else might be able to connect with the family.

John Hains (as the name is spelled in the record of his will in Tyler County, Virginia in 1815) is the earliest known ancestor, and he has therefore been designated as generation one (John¹) for convenience in keeping the generations straight. Special sections have been devoted to those of generation² about whom considerable has been learned. It is hoped that someday we may be able to do this for each member of generation². I have limited this report to five generations even where more were known, and have used a system of indentations which places each man's family under his own name with a deeper indentation and a generation number to set this family off from the preceding generation.

In order to avoid confusion, the reader should keep in mind that West Virginia was part of Virginia until 1861. When Virginia cast her lot with the Confederacy, the settlers west of the Alleghenies demanded a separate government for the western section, and such a government was organized in 1861. Two years later, West Virginia was admitted to the Union as the twenty-fifth state. This explains why Wetzel County, Tyler County, etc., may be referred to as in Virginia in one place and in West Virginia in another. It should also be kept in mind that Marshall, Wetzel and Tyler Counties were part of Ohio County at one time. Tyler was organized in 1814, Marshall in 1836, and Wetzel not until 1846.

I am very grateful to those members of the Hanes family who have so generously furnished me with family data, and I hope that putting these beginnings on paper will help us to contact more of the family.

JOHN¹ HANES

We know very little of John¹ Hanes. His will, dated 22 July, 1815, and probated in Tyler County, Virginia (now W. Va.) August term, 1815, names his wife Mary and the following children as heirs: Betsy and Susan, designated as the two eldest daughters; daughters Polly and Sally; sons John, Joseph, Jacob, Abraham; and sons David, Nathan, and Peter, designated as the three youngest sons.

The exact order of birth of these children is not known to me, but I have tried to make a rough guess from some of the known dates, census materials, etc., and have arranged the following pages accordingly.

Some descendants give John Hanes' wife's maiden name as Mary Myers, but I have seen no proof of this. There is a grave in Williams Cemetery near New Martinsville, W. Va. which may be hers. It is located very near that of Susannah Martin Hanes (wife of Abraham Hanes), and there is just enough left of the inscription on the tombstone to indicate that it may have read "Mary Hanes, wife of John Hanes." Perhaps other descendants have seen it in better state of preservation and can put me straight on this. Abraham Hanes' Bible gives her death date as 1844, at the age of ninety.

Descendants of Nathan, David, and Abraham (the writer of this summary is a descendant of Abraham) have compared old letters and Bible entries, etc., which show that John is the common ancestor, but none of us so far has been able to trace John Hanes' ancestry. However, his son Abraham² is written up in Hardesty's Historical and Geographical Encyclopedia (Tyler-Wetzel Volume, 1883), which gives Abraham's birthplace and date as Loudoun Co., Virginia, in 1784 (Abraham's Bible gives his birth-date as 1783).

A search of Loudoun Co. records reveals an assignment of a lease in 1780 by John Hains, shop joiner (as the name appears in the body of the instrument) of Loudoun Co., Va., to Andrew Copland. We have not been able to locate any record of the assignment of this lease to John Hains. However, the assignment by John Hains lists all the previous holders of the lease. One Thomas Smith transferred the lease to John Hains. It is this record which we have not been able to locate, but the assignment to Thomas Smith is recorded in Loudoun Co., and the date of this assignment was 1773. So the assignment by Smith to John Hains could have been any time between 1773 and 1780.

The signature at the end of the assignment of lease by John Hains to Andrew Copland in 1780 is written in German script, which a German archivist in Marburg, Germany, has transcribed for us as Johannes Henz, which he says is a very common German name, also spelled Henze and Hense. This indication that our John Hanes may have been German agrees with tradition in several branches of the family. Kate Hanes⁵, age 90, of Warwood, Wheeling, W. Va., when asked recently whether she knew what nationality her Hanes ancestors were, said, "Why, I had always understood they were Pennsylvania Dutch!" Ella (Hanes) Haudenschild, granddaughter of Abraham², believed John Hanes was a Hessian mercenary who managed to elude the British and stay on in this country. So far, attempts to verify this possibility in the German archives have been unsuccessful.

A study of Loudoun Co., Va. personal tax records (records on these begin with 1782) shows John Hains paying taxes on 3 horses and 3 cattle in 1782. His name appears on these tax lists until 1787. Where he went then I do not know, although there seems to have been a period of residence somewhere in Pennsylvania around 1799-1800, for the 1850 Census of Hamilton Co., Ohio, lists the birthdate and place of his youngest son, Peter², as about 1799-1800 in Pennsylvania.

1811 personal property tax records (the earliest we have been able to locate to date) for Ohio Co., Va. (now W. Va.) show John Hanes paying taxes there. Hardesty says that Abraham² was married in 1804 on Middle Island Creek (in what is now Tyler Co., W. Va.). Whether John¹ and family came with his son to Middle Island Creek I do not know. They were in Ohio Co. (Tyler Co. was part of Ohio County until 1814) in 1810, as shown by the 1810 Census of Ohio County, as follows:

John Haynes: Males: 1 under 10; 2(10-16); 1(16-26); 1 over 45
 Females: 1 under 10; 1(16-26); 1(26-45); 1 over 45

The spelling of the name varies from record to record, which is typical of these early records.

In John¹ Hains' will (the record of the will shows the name spelled thus), he bequeaths his 500 acre farm on Pursley Creek in Tyler County to his three youngest sons, David, Nathan, and Peter. Attempts to learn more about John¹ by tracing the purchase of this property before 1815 have produced little. Tyler County's first land book (1814) does not list any property under the name of John Hains or Hanes, and Ohio County deed records show nothing. However, this mystery seems to be cleared up by a deed record which appears in Tyler Co. Deed Book OS 2, pp. 406-407, 1828, in which Archibald Woods and wife, grantors (David, Nathan and Peter Hains, grantees) say they are recording for the first time the deed to 500 acres of land on Pursley Creek patented to Archibald Woods in 1808 and first sold to John Haines and bequeathed by John Haines to his sons David, Nathan, and Peter. Archibald Woods goes on to say in this same record that John Hains died without paying the whole of the purchase money for this land and without receiving a conveyance for said land. It is possible that the many thousands of acres of land recorded in land books of Tyler County in 1814 and later years in the name of Archibald Woods include the 500 acres later recorded as sold to the Hainses.

After John¹ Hanes' death, his personal property was appraised at $390.15.

JOHN² - The name John Hains (or Hanes) appears in deed records of Tyler Co., Va. from 1815 to 1827, wife Barbara or Barbary named in some. The name John Hains appears on the 1830 Census of Tyler Co. as follows:

John Hains - Males: 1(5-10); 2(15-20); 1(20-30); 1(50-60)
Females: 1(5-10); 2(10-15) 1(40-50).

The name does not show up on the 1850 Census of Tyler County. The marriage record of Jacob Haynes and Elizabeth Pennington (Belmont Co., Ohio, 1828) shows John Haynes giving affidavit that Jacob is over 21 and has no wife living. There is a record of administration of an estate of one John Hains in Dec., 1830 in Vermilion Co., Ind., where John's brother, David² went about 1835. As John² seems to have been in Tyler Co., Va. at the time of the 1830 Census, it seems unlikely that he was in Vermilion Co., Ind. by December, but not impossible.

BETSY² - Listed in the will of John¹ as one of two eldest daughters. No data on her.* May have married a Dickison.

SUSAN² - Listed in the will of John¹ as one of two eldest daughters. No data on her.* Did either Susan or Sally marry a Moore?

JACOB² - See special section beginning p. 7.

ABRAHAM² - See special section beginning p. 17.

POLLY² - No data on her.*

SALLY² - No data on her.*

JOSEPH² - One Joseph Hanes appears on Ohio Co., Va. personal property tax list for 1811 and 1814. It is possible this is our Joseph².

DAVID² - See special section beginning p. 59.

NATHAN² - See special section beginning p. 72.

PETER² - See special section beginning p. 86.

*According to a letter written by Alva Martin⁴ Hanes in 1902, one of these girls married a Thomas Jones. It seems that there were sons Nathan and John Jones (perhaps others). Alva's father (David³, son of Abraham²) went from Wetzel Co. to Marion Co., Va. in 1852 to learn the cabinet maker trade with Nathan³ Jones. Alva says "Grandfather and Uncle Jacob and Asa and Father built a mill for John Jones somewhere in the 40's on the Monongahela River at Little Falls, six miles above Morgantown. John Jones has two sons there yet, Reason and Joseph, and one Elias. Nathan has a son called David and one called Hanes Jones. John and Nathan are both dead." The family of Nathan Jones shows up on the 1850 Census of Marion Co., Va. Alva's letter was written from Fairview, West Virginia, which is in Marion County.

JACOB² - son of John¹

Jacob² Hanes is mentioned in the will of John¹ Hains. The earliest record which I have been able to locate which may pertain to our Jacob² is an apprenticeship agreement recorded in Ohio Co., Va., (now W. Va.) in 1802--one Jacob Haines to take on one McPherson as apprentice. This could have been in Wheeling, which, of course, is across the Ohio River from Belmont Co., Ohio, where Jacob² owned property later. His name and that of his brother Abraham appear on the 1810 tax list for Belmont Co. (Pease Township). Jacob² also appears in Belmont Co. Transfer Book for 1820-22 as owner of 398 acres in Pease Township which he bought from Robert Woods. I have not been able to locate the record of the purchase, so do not know when he bought it. Jacob's son Clark was born in 1810, and gives his birthplace as Ohio on the 1850 Census of Wheeling; James Hanes, another son of Jacob², gives his birthplace as Virginia on the 1850 Census of Belmont Co., Ohio (born abt. 1802), which further supports the guess that Jacob² may have lived in Ohio Co., Va. before moving to Belmont Co., Ohio. Belmont Co. records show the marriage of Jacob Haynes to Elizabeth Pennington on Feb. 17, 1828. Belmont deed records of 1825 show Jacob and Susanah Heanes (sic) of Peas (sic) Township, Belmont Co., Ohio, selling a lot in the town of Burlington (just north of Martin's Ferry). Tyler Co., W. Va. deed records show Jacob Hanes of Pease Twp., Belmont Co., Ohio, buying 1000 acres on Middle Island Creek in 1829, and Jacob Hanes and wife Elizabeth of Pease Twp., Belmont Co., Ohio, selling 1000 acres on Middle Island Creek in 1835. Since Jacob² had a son Jacob³, it is difficult to straighten out these marriages, but we know that Jacob² was married at least twice. Kate⁵ Hanes, of Warwood, Wheeling, W. Va. (1962), a great-granddaughter of Jacob², gives her greatgrandmother's name as Lorena Clark, and includes two half brothers (to her grandfather, Clark Hanes) among her list of the children of Jacob², a list supplied by a member of the family long ago.

I have not yet been able to locate Jacob² on the 1850 Census. There is no will or death record in Belmont or Tyler Co. A letter written by Peter² Hanes from Cincinnati in 1846 says that "Brother Jacob's son Clark" was down from Wheeling, and that he reported his father's folks in good shape. Note that he says his father's folks, not his father. This leads me to wonder whether Jacob died before 1846.

Miss Kate⁵ Hanes (b. 1872) remembers James' widow--"Aunt Becky". She used to visit Aunt Becky and family by crossing on the ferry from Wheeling to Martin's Ferry.

James³ and Jacob² had real estate dealings with each other in Belmont Co., and Mr. W. C. Gardner, greatgrandson of James' brother Clark, has in his possession a deed showing that on July 23, 1841, James Hanes and Rebeckah Hanes his wife of the State of Ohio and County of Belmont, assigned a parcel of land in Wheeling, which as described, he knows to be the land on which the Clark Hanes home was situated. James³ and Clark³ married sisters. A Centennial History of Belmont Co., Ohio (1903), by McKelvey (p. 192) says of Rebecca Hadsell, later to become the wife of James³ Hanes: "The history of the church proper (he is writing of the Methodist Episcopal Church) dates from the first camp meeting, held in Walnut Grove in 1821, at which time many were converted, and among the number Rebecca Hadsell, who later walked to Scott's on the St. Clairsville road, in midwinter, to urge the preacher to come to her neighborhood and preach. . . . From this humble beginning, Methodism in Martin's Ferry grew."

The same Centennial History says (in substance) of James³ James Hanes was a brick and stone contractor and was born in 1802. He was reared on a pioneer farm in Belmont Co., Ohio, married in 1824, and then settled in Burlington, oldest town in the county. The house is still standing, which was the family home until 1835, at which time he built the first dwelling house in Martin's Ferry. His house and an old warehouse composed Martin's Ferry at that time. James Hanes held many public offices and was universally respected. He traveled all over the county in the interests of Dodge's patent grate. In 1846 he commenced a marble business (cemetery monuments). He died Christmas Day, 1862. His widow died July 13, 1889, at 87. "She and her husband are recalled as most worthy types of the Ohio pioneers, whose sober lives did much to encourage temperance and morality during the early days."

Joseph T.⁴ Hanes was listed as a stonecutter on the 1860 Census of Belmont Co. McKelvey's Centennial History of Belmont County, Ohio has the following to say of Joseph T.⁴ and his brothers and sisters: (This book was published in 1903)

"Joseph T. Hanes was the sixth member of a family of eight children born to his parents, the others being as follows: Lucinda R., born in 1827, married William Edgington and lives at Martin's Ferry; Josephine, married Daniel Long, and died in 1898 at the age of 68, a worthy member of the Methodist Church; Martha has always remained in the old home, performing household duties, writing during the war the welcome letters, and living the sweet, quiet existence of a pious and worthy woman; Elizabeth, married Wesley A. Jones, who died, a soldier in the hospital at Evansville, Indiana--her daughter Estella is the widow of Ephriam Hanes; Minerva is the widow of Alexander Rose and resides at Fairmont, W. Va.; Anna E., who married R. C. Melson, lives in the old home; James C. is a stove molder in a foundry at Mansfield, Ohio."

Of Joseph T. specifically, Mr. McKelvey goes on to say (in substance)--Joseph T. Hanes was in the Civil War. He was taken prisoner in the Battle of Stone River and was sent to Libby Prison at Richmond, kept there two months then exchanged and rejoined his regiment at Murfreesboro, Tennessee. He was again taken prisoner at the Battle of Chickamauga in September, 1863, and first sent to Richmond, then to Danville, then for seven fearful months he was kept at the Andersonville pen, where conditions and diet gave him a case of scurvy. His teeth became loose, his gums blackened, his limbs would not support his body; finally, he had to be carried on a board to a hospital, where during his five weeks stay he was fed only rice. His father had died on Christmas, 1862, and his mother felt the need of her son to such an extent that she asked her friend Cyrus Mendenhall to apply to his friend the Secretary of War, Edwin M. Stanton, for a discharge for her son. A note dated Aug. 20, 1863 granted this request, but as the Colonel of Joseph's regiment received the note at the time the Battle of Chickamauga was pending, nothing was done about it, and this delay brought upon Mr. Hanes his terrible prison sentence, with its starvation, hardship, and impaired health, while his father's business had necessarily suffered such neglect that the settling of his estate entailed months of extra labor. After his recovery, Mr. Joseph Hanes continued the business, which he still owned in 1903.

Mr. J. T. Hanes was Recorder of Martin's Ferry from 1874 to 1880, and Councilman from 1867 to 1869.

Clark³ Hanes is listed on the 1850 Census of Wheeling, Va., as a carpenter, born in Ohio. He operated a planing mill in Wheeling, a business begun in 1849 under the name of Hanes and Beam. In 1866 it became Hanes and Wilson, and still later Wilson and Co. Clark's will, dated 1895, was probated in Ohio Co., W. Va. in 1899. His wife Louisa is mentioned in his will, as heir to "that part of a city lot in Wheeling on which is a two-story house". Clark's address at the time of his death was 711 Market, Wheeling. His large brick house still stands there on Market Street, although Mr. W. C. Gardner, his greatgrandson, says it was sold after his daughter Mary Ellen's death. The McNary's (Kate McNary was Clark's daughter) lived next door, and Will Hanes, Clark's son, who was foreman of the planing mill, also lived there on Market Street. Mr. Gardner says Clark³ did a lot of cabin work on boats, Wheeling being quite a boat-building town in those days when river commerce was at its height.

Descendants of John¹ and Mary Hanes

ABRAHAM² - son of John¹

Abraham² Hanes, son of John¹ and Mary, was born 5 July, 1783 in Loudoun County, Virginia (date from his family Bible). We know nothing of his early life until his marriage on 24 May, 1804, to Susannah Martin, a native of New Jersey. This marriage took place on Middle Island Creek (presumably in what is now Tyler County, West Virginia) and Abraham and his wife continued to live there for a few years, then moved to the mouth of Fishing Creek (the present location of New Martinsville), where they lived until about 1814, keeping hotel during the 1812 war. During this time Abraham evidently owned property in Belmont Co., Ohio, for his name appears on the Belmont Co. tax list for 1810, along with that of Jacob Hanes. About 1814 Abraham and family settled a little below Proctor, at the mouth of Hanes Run (formerly called Narrows Run) where they stayed until death. The squared-log cabin built by Abraham still stands as a landmark beside Route 2 just south of Proctor. (Tradition says it was built in 1814, and Mr. Palmer of New Martinsville, the present owner, whose father had it remodeled in the 1930's, says the date 1814 was found carved up under the eaves. Mr. Palmer had the date carved where it now shows.) This house is made of hand-hewn logs fastened together with hickory dowels. We have not been able to find any record of deeds in the name of Abraham Hanes before 1821, but it is quite possible that he could have lived there without owning the property, or that, as in the case of his father's five-hundred acre farm, the deed may have been recorded much later.

Ohio Co., Va. tax records of 1811 and 1814 show Abraham Hanes' occupation as ferryman. He is listed on the 1850 Census of Wetzel County, Va. as a millwright owning property worth $5200. By the time of the 1860 Census, he is listed as a farmer, with real estate worth $10,000 and personal property worth $1180.

According to a letter written by Alva⁴ Martin Hanes (grandson of Abraham²) to Peter³ Hanes (son of Abraham's brother David) in 1902, "Grandfather and Uncle Jacob and Asa and Father built a mill for John Jones somewhere in the 40's on the Monongahela River at Little Falls, six miles above Morgantown." From this it is evident that some of Abraham's sons worked with him. "Father" referred to is Abraham's son David, and Jacob and Asa are also sons of Abraham. Alva goes on to say that one of his grandfather Hanes' sisters married Thomas Jones, and it was one of these Joneses for whom the mill was being built. Abraham probably did considerable traveling around in the course of his work of building mills, so that he was accustomed to some travel when word came in 1846 that his son Ephraim had died in Iowa. A letter written from Cincinnati by Abraham's brother Peter to their brother David in 1846 says-- "Brother Abe's son Abram went to Ioway about one year ago and got married in April and was doing well, until August when he was taken sick and in about ten days he died. Abe has gone to see about his wife and business." (Evidently going by way of Ohio River steamboat and stopping at Cincinnati to see Peter, as Peter goes on to say that Abraham reported the rest of his family well when he left home.) I believe Peter meant Abe's son Ephraim rather than Abram, as Abraham's Bible gives son Ephraim's marriage as April 8, 1846, in Beloit, Wisconsin, and his death as August 12, 1846. They may have moved to Iowa from Wisconsin. Abraham²'s son Abraham³ was only sixteen at the time, and lived until 1869.

Abraham² was evidently still actively engaged as a millwright at 77, for he was putting up a mill over near Middlebourne in what is now Tyler Co., W. Va. in October, 1861 when he became ill and died suddenly. (The Abraham Hanes Bible gives the exact date as 31 October, 1861.) We have not been able to locate his grave, but when I asked his granddaughter, Mrs. Daisy Headlee, of New Martinsville, why he was not buried next to his wife in Williams Cemetery between New Martinsville and Proctor, she said the weather was too bad to bring him home, and so he was buried next to his brother Nathan at Jug Handle (a loop in Middle Island Creek near Middlebourne).

Abraham² and Susannah (Martin) Hanes had fourteen children, seven sons and seven daughters. The birthdates of Abraham and Susannah, and of their sons and daughters, and some of the marriages and deaths, are recorded in the Abraham Hanes Bible, a Bible which bears publication date 1830 (which means, of course, that many entries were made some years after the events). The family record seems to have been written at least in part in Abraham² Hanes' handwriting, if one can judge from the fact that he refers to "My father John Hanes cenier died July A.D. 1814," and to "Mary Hanes, my Mother, died Feb. 26, 1844."

Abraham² Hanes died intestate, and it took at least ten years to complete the settlement of his estate. This is understandable, when one considers that there were eleven of his children who survived him, and that they were well scattered by the time he died; also that he had property in at least two counties (Wetzel and Doddridge). His oldest son, Jacob³, collected powers of attorney from the following members of the family in 1865, empowering him to act on their behalf in the matter of their father's estate:

Maria³, wife of Thos. W. Jenkins, of Scotland County, Mo.
(this power of attorney was revoked in 1867, and later in 1867 Maria and Thomas sold their interest in the 700 acres on the Ohio River to Abraham W. Hanes, Maria's youngest brother, for $400). By the date of this deed (Sept. 1867), Maria and her husband had moved on to Knox County, Missouri.

Martha³, wife of W. D. Mitchell, of Warren Co., Mo.

Mary³, wife of Wm. Jacobs, of Doddridge Co., W. Va. This power of attorney was revoked in 1867, and later that same year, Wm. and Mary Jacobs deeded to Abraham W. Hanes their interest in the 700 acres.

Elizabeth³, wife of Thomas McNair, of Jersey County, Illinois. This power of attorney was revoked in October, 1868, and a power of attorney then given to Abraham W. Hanes to sell lands inherited from the estate of Abraham Hanes, deceased.

Phebe³, then the widow of Samuel McKelvey, residing in Pike County, Missouri.

Nathan³, of Wetzel Co., W. Va.

David³, of Marion Co., W. Va.

Naomi³, then the wife of Abraham Lehew of Henderson Co., Ill.

Abraham W.³, the youngest son, of Wetzel Co., W. Va.

Jacob³ (who was in Warren Co., Illinois at the time of the 1860 Census) went from Warren County in Illinois to West Virginia in 1865 to try to work out some kind of settlement, and Doddridge County records show that he did sell some of the Doddridge County property (on Meathouse Fork), but the estate was still not settled in 1870, when David³, evidently impatient at the long delay, brought a suit for partition of Abraham²'s 700 acres in Wetzel Co. in the Chancery Court of Wetzel Co., and the Court ordered that the property be sold. The property is described in the Court records as 700 acres (5 separate deeds) lying along the bank of the Ohio River below the land of Jacob Moore, including buildings and mills belonging to Abraham Hanes at the time of his death. This property was duly sold to Nathan³ Hanes and James W. Monroe for $3950, and the net proceeds ($3800) divided among the heirs still left in the picture. The widow's share, determined by code based on her age and life expectancy, was $172.25. The share of each of the others was $362.84, but since A. W.³ Hanes (the youngest son) had bought out the shares of his sister Maria³ Jenkins and his sister Mary³ Jacobs before his death in 1869, his heirs received three shares of the final distribution. Jacob³ seems to have been holding some other moneys from the estate, as the Judge decreed that Jacob³'s share of the $3800 should be distributed among the others until such time as he made settlement of funds he owed to the estate.

In 1871, in connection with the above suit and the distribution of moneys from the sale of the land, Nathan³ Hanes was empowered to act for:

Deborah³ and her husband, Wm. Henry Hill, of Independence Co., Arkansas.

Four children of Phebe² McKelvey, who had evidently died between the time she gave her power of attorney to Jacob³ in 1865 and Sept. 30, 1871, when these four children gave their power of attorney to Nathan³. The four McKelveys, John McKelvey, Susannah Lea, Eleanor McDonald and Edward McKelvey, signed before a notary in Montgomery Co., Missouri.

Martha³ and her husband, Wm. D. Mitchell, who had moved to Vernon Co., Mo. by 1871.

Elizabeth³ and her husband Thomas McNair of Jersey Co., Ill.

Naomi S.³ Lehew of Henderson Co., Ill.

JACOB³ - b. 27 Feb. 1805

m. 3 Nov. 1825 in Ohio Co., Va. to Eliza Majors

d. after 1870

Jacob³ Hanes was probably the practical millwright referred to by Hardesty (in his volume on Doddridge and Ritchie Counties) when he says that Jacob Hanes, a practical millwright, was the architect for the first sawmill in the Grant district of Doddridge Co. (then Va.), which was built by Nathan J. David in 1845. Jacob³ Hanes and his wife are listed on the 1850 Census of Doddridge Co., Va. with ten children, and one Asa Haines, sawyer, age 30 (probably Jacob's brother) -- Jacob's occupation, millwright. The 1860 Census lists Jacob³ and family (Jacob³ a farmer) in Warren County, Illinois, in a place called Young America, which has since been renamed Kirkwood. This places him very close to his sister Naomi³, who had gone to Oquawka, Henderson Co., Illinois about 1854. By the time of the 1870 Census, Jacob and those of his family still at home are listed in Biggsville, which is quite near Kirkwood, but in Henderson County. At some time after 1870, he evidently went to Neodesha, Kansas. His brother David's son Alva Martin⁴ Hanes in the same 1902 letter quoted earlier says "Father's oldest brother, Jacob Hanes, was here (the letter was written from Amos, W. Va., now called Fairview) at one time for about a year or more. And I am sorry I didn't write down the history of the Hanes race, he being the oldest boy and a thinking man and great to observe. He would likely know more of them than all the balance of the younger ones. Father never seemed to know much about such things. Uncle Jacob was married out on Middle Island then moved west, don't know who his wife was. He was a great man to get up patents. He lived in Neodesha, Kansas, at one time, had a son, Elias, who is in the west somewhere, and a daughter, Susan, who married Ozack Kane and is in St. Mary's, Ohio (actually she was in St. Mary's, W. Va.) if living, had two sons got killed or died in the Union Army, Frank was one, don't know the other's name."

Jacob³ had probably gone to his son Elias at Neodesha.

Children of Abraham² and Susannah (Martin) Hanes, contd.:JACOB³ contd.

Elias went into Company E, 138th Reg't of Illinois Infantry Volunteers in the Civil War from Warren County, Illinois, and his pension record shows him to have been in Neodesha in 1890. I have not been able to locate a death record or will for Jacob³. For further details about Jacob³, see section on his father, Abraham².

ELIZABETH³ - b. 16 June 1806
m. 13 July 1823 to Thomas McNair
d. 5 Jan. 1895 in Elsay, Jersey Co., Ill.

Thomas and Elizabeth³ McNair are listed on the 1880 Census of Elsay Township, Jersey Co., Illinois, with their son Robert H. living with them and their son William A. living nearby. Thomas McNair's obituary, sent to me in 1961 by Beulah McNair Carpenter of Hemet, California (a great-granddaughter of Thomas and Elizabeth), gives some details of their moves, etc. Thomas came down the Ohio River from Pittsburgh at age 17, stopping in Tyler Co., Va., where he learned the trade of millwright, in which he afterwards became distinguished. It was there he met and married Elizabeth Hanes (one cannot help wondering whether he was associated with her father, since both were millwrights), and shortly after their marriage they moved to Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania, where he engaged in milling and remained until 1832. Then they moved to Butler, Butler Co., Pennsylvania, where he purchased a mill and woolen factory, which he ran with good success until it was burned to the ground in 1842. It was promptly rebuilt and remained as a model as late as 1868. Thomas engaged extensively in mill building in various sections of the country. In 1849 he followed the lure of gold to California, and after four years returned to his family and in 1854 moved to Virginia, once more building furnaces, mills, and iron works. It was a contract to construct a large flour mill in Elsay, Jersey Co., Ill. which took the family there in 1856, where Elizabeth and Thomas remained until death. (Thomas died in 1881.)

William Alexander⁴ McNair appears on the 1880 Census of Jersey Co., Ill. as a widower (occupation millwright) with two sons. William Alexander⁴ McNair and his brother Robert⁴ McNair were inventors. My mother remembers that probably between 1890 and 1900 her father, who was their cousin, bought an old brewery west of Peoria, Ill., which, we guess, was to serve the two McNairs as a place in which to develop their inventions. I gather that they were very clever with their ideas, but needed a third more practical partner to get their ideas patented and into practical production before someone beat them to it. Perhaps that is why nothing much ever came of their inventions.

However, David and family are listed on the 1850 Census in the residence next to Wm. and Mary Jacobs. William and Mary³ Jacobs were still in Doddridge Co. in 1865 when they gave their Power of Attorney to Jacob³ Hanes in connection with the estate of Abraham². In 1867 William and Mary³ Jacobs, of Doddridge Co., as heirs-at-law of Abraham² Hanes, sold to Abraham W.³ Hanes of Wetzel Co. their undivided interest in the 700 acres lying along the bank of the Ohio River.

On the 1850 Census of Wetzel Co., Virginia, Thomas Jenkins (a shoemaker) and Maria³ are listed in Dwelling #628, while Abraham² and Susannah Hanes are in Dwelling #625, surely indicating that the parents and daughter lived close to each other. There are seven Jenkins children listed with the family. Others may have been born after 1850, and it is possible that there could have been one older than Sarah Ann⁴. I have seen pictures of a Bert Jenkins among Maria's sister Naomi's treasures. In 1865, when they gave Maria's brother Jacob³ power of attorney to act for them in the matter of

By 1872 at least two members of Maria's and Thomas' family were in Burlington, Iowa. Mary Jane's name appears on a deed record with her husband, Henry Yaeger, in March, 1872, and Nannie (Nancy) Jenkins' marriage to Elias B. PHEBE³ - b. 16 Oct. 1810
m. Samuel McKelvey
d. between Feb. 1865 and Sept. 1871

No record of Phebe's marriage to Samuel McKelvey appears in her father's Bible. Phebe was a widow in 1846. She appears on the 1850 Census of Goshen Township, Belmont County, Ohio, with her six children. In 1855 a suit was brought before the Court of Common Pleas of Belmont Co. by John McKelvey vs. Phebe McKelvey, Joseph McKelvey, Susannah McKelvey, Eleanor McKelvey, Edward McKelvey, and Abraham McKelvey for partition of certain property left by Samuel McKelvey, deceased. These are the names of the six children listed with Phebe on the 1850 Census. The court ordered the partition as petitioned, and found the plaintiff entitled to one-sixth part of the property, subject to the dower rights of Phebe, widow of Samuel McKelvey.

At what time Phebe³ left Belmont County is not known to the compiler, but it may have been in 1856, for she sold her own 30 acres in May, 1856. She was in Pike County, Missouri in 1865 when her brother, Jacob³ Haynes, took her power of attorney to Wetzel County, W. Va. to represent her eleventh interest in the estate of her father, Abraham². There is on record in Wetzel Co. a power of attorney given in 1871 by four of Phebe's children (John McKelvey, Susanna Lea, Eleanor McDonald, and Edward McKelvey) to Nathan³ Haines of Wetzel Co., W. Va. to receive and collect all moneys due them from the estate of their grandfather, deceased. They appeared before a notary in Montgomery Co., Missouri. This dates Phebe's death between February, 1865 and September, 1871.

MARTHA³ - b. 22 Oct. 1813
m. 14 March 1833 to William D. Mitchell

Martha's birth record and marriage record appear in her father's Bible. I have not been able to find her listed on any census so far, nor to learn anything of her children. She and her husband were in Warren County, Missouri in May, 1865 when they gave a power of attorney to Martha's brother Jacob³ in connection with their father's estate. Later that month, Jacob³, as attorney-in-fact for Wm. D. Mitchell and wife Martha, deeded the Mitchell's interest (as heirs of Abraham Hanes) in some land on Meathouse Fork in Doddridge Co. (known as the Haynes Mill property) to Ephraim Bee. In 1871, Wm. and Martha³ were in Vernon Co., Missouri, for they sent their power of attorney from there to Nathan Hanes, again in connection with Abraham Hanes' estate.

DEBORAH³ - b. 7 April, 1816
m. 12 Oct. 1843 to Wm. Henry Hill in Tyler Co., Va.
d. within 60 miles of Little Rock, Ark. before 1902?

Deborah³ Hanes' birth record and marriage record appear in her father's Bible. Her marriage record also appears in Tyler County's first marriage book. I have not been able to find Deborah and William Henry Hill on the 1850 Census. They were not listed on the Wetzel or Tyler County Census for 1850. Their power of attorney was sent by them to Nathan³ from Independence Co., Ark. in 1871 at the time of the settlement of Abraham's estate. The vague information about Deborah's death was taken from the 1902 letter of Alva Martin⁴ Hanes referred to earlier. He says: "Aunt Debbie Hill, now dead, lived about 60 miles from Little Rock, Arkansas." Their children are unknown to me.

EPHRAIM MARTIN³ - b. 18 Feb. 1818
m. 8 Apr. 1846 to Jane Barrenger in Beloit, Wis.
d. 12 Aug. 1846

Children of Abraham² and Susannah (Martin) Hanes, contd.:EPHRAIM MARTIN³ contd.

Ephraim³ Hanes' birth, marriage, and death record appear in his father's Bible. He was in Beloit, Wisconsin by April, 1846, and according to his Uncle Peter's letter, written in December, 1846 (see quote under Abraham²) was in Iowa when he died. There was one son born to this marriage, for in the same file (No. 232, Chancery Court, Wetzel Co.) with the papers on the partition suit referred to earlier, there is a guardian bond for one Ephraim M. Hanes, orphan of Ephraim Martin Hanes, dated 24 January, 1848, undertaking to deliver any property due him when he attained lawful age. The bond is in the name of Abraham Hanes and P. M. Martin. Alva Martin⁴ Hanes' letter of 1902 says "Father had a brother, Uncle Ephraim, married and went to Wisconsin, had one son and he died." Since there was no provision for Ephraim's son Ephraim⁴ in the settlement of the Abraham Hanes estate, it must be assumed that Ephraim⁴ died before 1871.

Child of Ephraim Martin³ and Jane (Barrenger) Hanes:

Ephraim M.⁴ - died young?

ASA³ - b. 20 Dec. 1819) Both dates from Abraham² Hanes Bible
d. 2 Dec. 1861

It is probably this Asa Hanes whose name appears on the 1850 Census of Doddridge Co., Va., in the family group of Jacob³ Hanes. Asa is listed as a sawyer. Whether Asa also migrated to Warren County, Illinois, I do not know, but one A. M. Hanes does appear on the 1860 Census of that county, with a farm family. And there are indications that Asa also carried his mother's maiden name as a second name. Among the treasures left by Asa's nephew William Ellery LeHew, of Burlington, Iowa, is a beautifully polished wood snuffbox which the family says was made by William's Uncle Asa. Asa died before this nephew was born, but William's mother, Naomi³ (Hanes) LeHew, might have given it to William⁴. Also among Naomi's mementoes is a picture of Asa, with a note that he was six feet seven inches tall.

NATHAN³ - b. 13 Nov. 1821 in Tyler County, Virginia
m. 9 June 1853 in Marshall Co. Va. to Elizabeth Monteith, whose name I find spelled Monteith and Montieith.
d. 13 Nov. 1899. Buried in Williams Cemetery, between New Martinsville and Proctor, West Virginia.

The following biographical material on Nathan³ Hanes is taken from Hardesty's Historical and Geographical Encyclopedia (pub. 1883):

"Nathan Hanes--born in Tyler County, Virginia, Nov. 13, 1821, near the mouth of Proctor. He is a millwright by trade, and is living yet in the place where he was born. During the years of the Civil War he kept the Proctor postoffice. Elizabeth Montieth was born in Marshall County, Virginia, just below Moundsville, February 12, 1832. Nathan Hanes and Elizabeth Montieth were married June 9, 1853, in Marshall County, and their children are recorded:" (see next pages)

It must have been just after the publication of Hardesty's Encyclopedia that Nathan³ Hanes built the large house up on the hill which is now occupied by his granddaughter, Lily⁵ (Hanes) Johnson, and her husband, Paul, for Lily says her father (Chester⁴) was seven years old when Nathan and family moved into it. She also says "They all moved away around 1900, and it was rented for about 50 years before we bought it. The old log house that sits close to the highway near our run road is the original home of Abraham and he had a mill on the creek there. We found the mill stone and moved it up near our house about five years ago. There was another house (in which I was born and my father also, and perhaps his father Nathan) located almost directly below the present one. It was torn down when the highway was built. It was a large house and it sat between the railroad and the hill. They kept their steam sawmill boat there too."

Nathan³ visited his sister Naomi³ in Burlington, Iowa, in the 1880's (sometime before she spent the winter with him at Proctor). At the time of his death in February, 1962, Nathan's son Chester⁴ still had a little account book in which Nathan³ had written that at Storm Lake, Iowa, land was selling for $3.00 to $10.00 per acre.

Among the treasures left by Nathan's sister Naomi³ is a sort of business card which says: N. Hanes & Sons, Proctor, Wetzel Co., W. Va., Saw Mill Clipper. All Kinds of Sawing and Planing Done to Order. Prices of sawing: Hardwood, $4.00 per 1000; Soft wood, $3.50 per 1000; Lathe - (no price shown). This Clipper was a steamboat with sawmill and planing mill constructed upon it. I have a picture of the Clipper, with a man identified as "Sherman" standing on the top deck. I am indebted to Mrs. Daisy Schau, a granddaughter of Nathan³, for lending me her picture of the Clipper and one of Nathan³ for reproduction. At least one of Nathan's nephews worked on the Clipper with him, according to the following information from Butcher and Callahan's History of the Upper Monongahela Valley: "David O. Hanes, son of David and Amelia (Hibbs) Hanes, went to his Uncle Nathan in Tyler Co. after finishing his common school education. His Uncle owned and operated a sawmill and planing mill, both constructed upon a steamboat, and they plied from one point along the river to another between Pittsburgh and Cincinnati." According to Nathan's son Chester Hanes, who worked on the Clipper during the summer as a boy, the sawmill boat sometimes went as far as Paducah, Kentucky.

Nathan³ is listed in his father's family group on the 1850 Census of Wetzel Co., Virginia. On the 1860 Census, Nathan is listed in Wetzel Co., very close to his parents, with his wife and five children. In 1865, Nathan³ gave his brother Jacob³ his power of attorney to act for him in connection with their father's estate. Nathan's address at the time was Wetzel Co.

DAVID³ - b. 8 Aug. 1824

m. 30 May 1853 to Amelia Hibbs in Marion Co., Va.

d. Sept. 1900 in Marion Co., W. Va.

David³ Hanes is listed in his father's family group on the 1850 Census of Wetzel Co., Va. The following biographical material was taken from Butcher and Callahan's History of the Upper Monongahela Valley of West Virginia, Vol. 3, pp. 1152-4:

"David, sixth son of Abraham and Susan (Martin) Hanes, was born in West Virginia in 1824. At an early age, he learned the millwright trade, having worked at the same with his father. In 1852 he went to Fairview, Virginia, and there learned the cabinet maker trade with Nathan Jones, who at that date was a prominent man in the Monongahela Valley. After mastering his second trade, David Hanes moved to Clinton Furnace in the mountains and followed his trade of a millwright and carpenter. Subsequently he moved to Little Falls on the Monongahela River. In 1858 he removed with his family to Fairview where he made all kinds of cabinet work, household furniture and spinning wheels. He followed this until the breaking out of the rebellion in 1861 when he entered the Union Army as a member of Company P, 6th Regiment West Virginia Volunteers, serving until the end of the war. Returning home, he turned his attentions to carpentering and building in the community where he spent many years of his useful life. Politically he was a Republican, staunch and true to his party. He joined the Grand Army of the Republic and took much interest in the after-war affairs. He died in 1900. His wife was Amelia Hibbs. Their children were William, b. March 15, 1854, Alva M., of whom further, Ida R., Thomas, b. June 29, 1866, and David O., of whom further." Practically the same information on David³ is given in the 1902 letter written by Alva Martin⁴ Hanes, son of David³. David's daughter Ida's birth record (Marion Co., 1860) shows David's occupation as wheelwright.

It was David³ who in 1870 brought the suit for partition of the Abraham² Hanes lands described in the section on Abraham².

"I was born in the town of Fairview (now Amos P.O.) Nov. 27, 1858. In '66 we moved to Basnettville, three-fourths of a mile below here. I worked on a farm, some in a coal bank, some in the shop and with Father on house work, all hand work. Fall of '79 I went to Wheeling, worked in a hotel a week, shipped on a steamboat and played cook one trip, got on another and went to Louisville and back, then went to Pittsburgh with Edgar Hanes, a cousin, and shipped on a coal tower and made a round trip to Louisville. . . . Then I came back home in Jan. '80 and in March went back to Wheeling and worked near a year for the Baltimore and Ohio R. R., went to Baltimore on a visit during the time. In January I went or was sent by the Company to Chicago. In 1890 I came back home, but I was married in '83 and in Sept. '91 I went back to Chicago and went to work for the Calumet and Blue Island R. R. and in '94 when the Pullman or American Railway Union strike took place I pulled up and left there and came back here. . . . In the winter of '94, David O. and I bought a little planing mill sold at court and we have been running it ever since, working for ourselves and not for a boss, thank God." Alva⁴ was a socialist in politics.

Marion Co., W. Va. records show Alva Hanes' death on April 27, 1938 at age 79 of myocarditis. His occupation is recorded as "planing mill." His wife preceded him in death.

was a planing mill, both of which were constructed upon a steamboat, and they plied from one point on the river to another between Pittsburgh and Cincinnati and stopped to saw out jobs of logs on hand at boat landings. After following this unique kind of milling for four years with his uncle he returned and joined his brother, Alva M., in Chicago, where he worked at patternmaking for a time. In 1893, he was appointed one of the Columbia Exposition guards and was in Chicago during the time of the Pullman strike in 1894.

NAOMI SUSANNAH³ - b. 27 July 1826 near Proctor, Va.
m. 9 May 1853 to Abraham W. LeHew
d. 15 Oct. 1906 in Burlington, Iowa

Naomi Susannah³ Hanes is listed among her father's family group on the 1850 Census of Wetzel County, Virginia. The family Bible (which had belonged to Abraham²) shows her marriage to Abraham W. LeHew on 9 May, 1853. A. W. LeHew lived fairly close to the Haneses near Proctor, Va. By the autumn of 1854, Abraham and Naomi Susannah³ had migrated to Oquawka, in Henderson Co., Illinois. The 1860 Census of Henderson Co., Illinois shows Abraham LeHew and wife Naomi and three children listed in Oquawka, Abraham's occupation, farmer. It is puzzling to note that the oldest child, age 4, is listed as Whitefield, and yet is the same age that my grandfather, John Abraham⁴ LeHew, of this family, would have been in 1860. Could the name have been changed later? The oldest child is listed as John on the 1870 Census.

By the time of the 1870 Census, Naomi³ and six children are listed--not Abraham. Abraham had gone off to California, his wife and six children remaining behind. Their granddaughter, Susannah⁵ Wheeler Hunter, says her mother, Phebe⁴ LeHew, always gave her the impression that Naomi was to have joined Abraham in California, but that somehow, perhaps due to illnesses and the reluctance of the children (Susan in particular) to make the move, this never came about. Abraham kept in touch with his family, as evidenced by pictures of him taken in Sacramento which appear in sons' and daughters' albums. In the early 1890's, partly because Naomi³ so much desired to keep in contact with Abraham (she was in poor health herself and could not accompany them as planned), and partly because they themselves wished to do some pioneering, daughter Phebe⁴ (LeHew) and her husband John Wheeler set out for California in a covered wagon. I believe they lived with Phebe's father near San Lucas, California (he was a sheep rancher at the time) for a time before settling into their own sod house. In 1896 Phebe was boarding a train to come back to Burlington, to fetch her mother out to California, and her father, who was seeing her off, tried to get off after the train had started moving, and was thrown under the wheels and killed.

Sometime during the late 1880's, Naomi Susannah³ made a trip from Burlington, Iowa back to her brother Nathan's home near Proctor, W. Va. and stayed for the winter. Nathan's son Chester⁴ (a small boy at the time), in reminiscing over this visit a year or so before his death said the very thought of her reminded him of apple dumplings, as it seems Naomi³ liked to bake, and the delicious aroma of apple dumplings often greeted Chester on his return from school. He said Naomi was small "as Haneses go" (it seems most of them were quite large), and used to curl up in a rocking chair with her feet under her. My mother's early memories of her grandmother

Naomi³ are of a very neat, rather precise person who helped out in their home when her mother died. In her later years, Naomi³ lived with her daughter Susan⁴ and her husband, Charles Wheeler, in Burlington, Iowa. Naomi's obituary says she had lived in Burlington from 1890.

Susanna⁵ (Wheeler) Hunter has letters written by Naomi³ to Susanna's mother (Phebe⁴, then in California) in 1893 from 1221 S. 10th St., Burlington, Iowa, where she evidently was living with daughter Susan and her husband, for she writes of baking pies for his dinner bucket. Other letters from Naomi³ to daughter Phebe⁴ indicate that by 1893 Naomi's health was not good. (She said Hood's "Sarsaphr. Glaguep" was helping her.) These letters also indicate that there were some "pinching" times, during which Naomi did what she could to help by knitting, making and selling lace collars, doing crayon sketches, and making paper flowers. In one letter written in 1893, she says: "We have a good many talks planning to go to California. We (a neighbor and herself) should have been there long since if we had a big pile of money."

Another letter written by Naomi³ to Phebe⁴ in 1900 from Burlington, Iowa says in part: "David my last brother was taken in September. Not a sister nor a sister's husband, not a brother's wife left - just me all alone. . . . Phebe, I am so glad David embraced religion a few years ago."

Among other treasures preserved by Naomi's children and grandchildren (still other treasures have been lost in fires, etc.) are many pictures of the Hanes family. In an album of pictures, etc. which has come down to my sister through my mother, there is a little memento made out of braided human hair in the shape of a heart, with very fine handwriting within it saying "Abraham, I love thee; dost thou love me?" One wonders whether this is a relic of the courtship of Abraham and Naomi.

For a time, at least, Naomi³ lived close to her sister Maria³, who also died in Burlington, Iowa; her sister Phebe³ was in Pike Co., Mo. in 1865; her sister Elizabeth³ lived in Jersey Co., Illinois from 1857 until her death in 1895; and for many years her brother Jacob³ lived within a few miles of Oquawka.

Naomi Susannah³ (Hanes) LeHew died in Burlington, Iowa in 1906. She is buried in Oquawka Cemetery. Her obituary says: "Mrs. N. S. LeHew passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. M. Wheeler, No. 403 South Fifth Street. Two years ago she fell on a rock, causing an abscess on the lung, and leaving her in a feeble condition. . . . The remains will be taken to Oquawka for interment. . . . Mrs. LeHew was a good woman, and had made many friends here during her 16 years of residence in the Orchard City. She has long been an earnest and consistent member of the Methodist Episcopal Church." A letter which Phebe⁴, daughter of Naomi Susannah³, wrote to my mother, Metta⁵ (Le Hew) Mohn, in January, 1949 (Phebe died later that same year) says: "I wonder if any of you living in Peoria came to Oquawka to Mother's funeral. Mother owned a lot there in the cemetery so Sister Sue and Charlie Wheeler her husband brought Mother's remains to Oquawka from Burlington. Old neighbors carried her coffin from the steamboat to the Methodist Church where her funeral sermon was preached. I couldn't be there." (This letter was written from Shawnee, Oklahoma, where Phebe was living with her daughter, Susanna⁵ Wheeler Hunter.)

Children of Naomi Susannah³ (Hanes) and Abraham W. LEHEW:

- John Abraham⁴ - b. 12 July 1855, Oquawka, Illinois
m. (1) in 1874 to Emma T. Hostler in Henderson County, Ill.; (2) 20 Oct. 1888 to Luna F. Stillwell in Henderson Co., Ill.; (3) 26 Apr. 1894 to Mrs. Mary E. Moffett (maiden name Mary E. Carroll) in Peoria, Ill.; (4) 1 Jan. 1896 (in Pekin, Ill.) to Laura A. Dudley (divorced 1900); (5) _____; (6) Marie _____.
d. 2 February 1933 in Peoria County. Buried in Rozetta Cemetery (Henderson Co.), Ill.

John Abraham⁴ LeHew may have begun life as Whitefield LeHew. I have not been able to find any relatives who ever heard of such a name, and yet the 1860 Census of Henderson Co., Illinois lists a Whitefield LeHew in the place that should have been John's in the family of Abraham W. LeHew and wife. (I have purposely varied the way of writing LeHew, as it really did vary from record to record. My mother remembers it as always Le Hew, so it may be that by the time she came along the family had standardized it, but not so the various family clerks, etc.)

John Abraham⁴ was married to Emma T. Hostler, daughter of Easton James and Martha (Reeder) Hostler, when he was 19. They spent the first year of their married life in Lincoln, Nebraska, and then came back to Henderson Co., Illinois, where in 1877, John Abraham⁴ LeHew bought a 40 acre farm in Bald Bluff Township. He sold this in 1879 and in 1882, 1884, and 1885 he bought property in Rozetta Township. His wife, Emma, died in 1885 in Rozetta shortly after the birth of their fifth child, and during the period before John married for the second time in October, 1888, his young family were being looked after, by his sisters Phebe⁴ and Susan⁴ and by his mother, Naomi³. At the time of his second marriage (to Luna Stillwell), Henderson Co. records show his residence as Burlington, Iowa, and his occupation as commercial traveler. My mother says he was traveling for the Burlington Pickle Company. They must have lived in Burlington from at least 1888 to 1890, for Des Moines Co. records show the purchase of a lot in Burlington in partnership with his brother William in July, 1888, at which time both are listed as residents of Des Moines Co. In March, 1890, when John sold his share of the lot to his brother William, John, his wife Luna, and William all gave their residence as Des Moines Co., Iowa. In July, 1890, William sold the lot, giving his address as Peoria Co., Illinois.

My mother remembers going to her first school in Peoria, at the Livingston School on the south side. She says that her father had his own pickle works at this time, at first on the present site of South Park, and later on N. Washington Street. Frank's Peoria City Directory for 1891 lists John A. Le Hew as president and manager, Peoria Pickle Works, foot of Hancock, with his residence at 824 N. Washington. His brother Charles R.⁴ is also listed as a worker at Peoria Pickle Works in 1891, residing at 133 Irving, but he is not listed in the 1892 Directory. His brother William E.⁴ Le Hew is listed in this 1891 Directory also, working at Peoria Pickle Works and living at 203 Hancock. William continued to work there in 1892, but had moved to 627 Vine in Averyville. John Abraham's wife and his daughter Jennie both have directory listings as workers at Peoria Pickle Works in 1892. Their residence had changed to 140 Green Street in 1892. Mrs. J. A. LeHew is listed as bookkeeper for Peoria Pickle Works.

My mother has tender memories of her stepmother Luna and indeed of the whole Stillwell family. Luna died about 1893, however, and by 1894 John had married a third time, for among Peoria County marriages for 1894 is recorded the marriage of John Abraham La Hew, a manufacturer residing in Peoria, to Mrs. Mary E. Moffett, maiden name Mary E. Carroll. My mother says this ended in divorce, but she remembers this time as an era when they had nicer things in their home. Evidently Mary liked nice things, and perhaps she brought some of hers with her. In 1896 came the fourth bride for John A.⁴ and third stepmother for his children. John A.⁴ Lehew and Laura A. Dudley were married in Pekin, Illinois Jan. 1, 1896. My mother still remembers her with affection, and long after Laura was divorced from John⁴ in 1900 (in Peoria), she kept in touch with his children and grandchildren. I remember her well. But John A.⁴ had still not finished his marrying game--there were two more to go! I have not yet located the record of #5, but my mother says she thinks it took place somewhere in western Illinois. John A.⁴ and this wife lived in Wichita, Kansas. By this time he had given up the Pickle Works and was traveling for Keystone Steel and Wire Company of Bartonville, Ill. We were favored with an occasional visit during the period of the Wichita residence, but as my mother's memories of homelife in her father's house were never very happy ones, the visits were not looked forward to. John Abraham⁴ seems to have been one of those men who could be cruel and domineering at home, and the most charming of men to people outside the home. His pictures show him a debonair and good-looking man--a real ladykiller, I would say (and didn't he manage to get six of them to marry him?)

John A.⁴ came back to Peoria County to live in the early 20's after his fifth wife had died, bringing with him his sixth. They took up their residence west of Peoria not far from where we lived, in an old brick brewery which John⁴ had bought sometime in the 1890's (Laura A. had lived there with him then) and which was sometimes referred to as "LeHew's folly". It seems likely that he bought this old three-story brick building as a place in which two of his cousins (sons of his mother's sister Elizabeth³) could put their inventions into production. I assume that as promoter and furnisher of plant facilities, John⁴ expected to reap a fair share of any gains. Part of the building was set aside as family living quarters or apartments, and much to my mother's chagrin, they had to live there, in this old building which at least at first had hardly a window light in it. She hung her head with shame, she said, as she faced her classmates at the Pleasant Hill (then still called Dutch Hill) School from such a residence. The irony of it was that although it seems that William and Robert McNair, the inventor cousins mentioned, were really very clever, their inventions never seemed to reach the market before someone else had beaten them to it, so the whole project came to naught.

John Abraham⁴ had lived in the old brewery for some years before his death in 1933. Marie, his sixth wife, preceded him in death by about a year. They returned from Wichita, Kansas early in the 1920's when a tornado demolished most of the top story of the brewery, depositing a few of the bricks in our yard perhaps half a mile away. Sometime after this the entire third story was removed and the building (sold after John A.'s death) now stands as a tavern, bearing little resemblance to what it once was. Grandfather used to show us through the cellars where the beer had once been kept. At one time these cellars had also been used for mushroomraising.

Susan A.⁴ is listed on the 1880 Census of Henderson Co., Ill. twice--in her mother's family group, and in the home of Miron Mills, where it seems she and her sister Phebe were working.

In November, 1885, Susan A. Wheeler and Charles, her husband, signed their names before a McDonough Co., Ill.
 Notary in connection with the sale of LeHew property in Henderson Co. They also lived in Burlington, Iowa, going from there to Oquawka for a while after the death of Susan's mother, Naomi³, in 1906. At some time they also lived in Aurora, Ill., while Charles was working for the Burlington Railroad.

After the death of his wife Mary⁴, James Autry married Alice Inman, and they had 13 children. The confusion regarding the Autry-Ortery spelling, I have been told by one of this latter group, arose from the fact that James Autry was stolen from his rightful family in the south as a small boy and was brought to the Middle West, where he went to school, too young to have learned to spell his name. The teacher did her best with the way he pronounced it, and came up with "Ortery." Later he found some of his own people and learned it was "Autry."

It seems that Phebe⁴ very early learned to make herself useful to others, and that she held her family very dear, as evidenced by the many pictures, letters, and mementos which she saved (it is tragic that so many were lost by fire, moves, etc.) and by the many conversations which she had with her daughters in her later years about her memories of the family. She would not have an unkind word spoken of any of them, and brought her children up to look for the good in people. It was Phebe⁴ who went into her brother John's home to take care of the four young children when his wife Emma died in 1885; a very early recollection of my mother's is of having to say goodbye to dear Aunt Phebe "when she was going away on a long train trip". Aunt Phebe's daughter Susanna⁵ says her mother also talked about how hard it was to leave little Metta, but that actually she was not going so far -- only leaving because her brother John⁴ had remarried. Aunt Phebe⁴ was also on hand to help out when her sister Mary⁴ died in 1887, so she was well prepared to raise her own brood when she married in 1890. Their daughter Mary Naomi⁵ was born in San Lucas, California, where they had gone to see how things were with Phebe's father, and to do some pioneering of their own. By the time Susanna⁵ was born in 1897, they were back in Illinois, at Colchester, McDonough Co., and by 1899 in Enid, Oklahoma.

Phebe⁴ Le Hew is listed on the 1880 Census in the home of Miron Mills in the Greenville Precinct of Henderson Co., Ill. Her sister Susan⁴ was also there. I understand that they worked for the Mills.

At the time of the 1880 Census, Charles⁴ LeHew was living in Oquawka with his mother and working on a farm (perhaps their own?). In 1885 when some family lots were disposed of in Oquawka, the signatures of Charles and Melvina, his wife, came from McDonough Co., Ill. By 1899, they had moved to Des Moines Co., Iowa, when their signatures were required on a deed as heirs of Abraham W.
Le Hew.

James Huston⁵ Le Hue, son of Charles⁴ and Melvina, says his father was a farm worker who worked on a share basis, and their moves were many, although most of the time they were not too far from the old home in Oquawka.
They lived on the Iowa side of the Mississippi River near Kingston at one time in the 90's when the river rose and flooded a vast amount of the farmland there. Along with many others, Charles⁴ and Melvina lost all their crops.

Charles⁴ was associated with his brother John A.⁴ Le Hew at the Peoria Pickle Works in 1891, at which time his residence was listed in Frank's Peoria Directory as 133 Irving. As he was not listed in the 1892 Directory, I assume he had gone back to farming.

In 1909, when he was only 46 years old, Charles⁴ Le Hew died. Then, of course, times were harder than ever for his family. His son James⁵ tells of having to leave school and begin to take a man's place on the farm. The next year (1910), the family tried farming in South Dakota, but as luck would have it, that year the hot winds and the gophers took so much of their crop that they could not make a go of it. Feed was short and they lost all their livestock that winter with straw colic-- and the following spring found them back in Henderson Co., Ill., starting all over again.

original French spelling than Le Hew, he decided to adopt this spelling) has had a varied experience in life. He has held jobs of all sorts which have taken him from Oquawka to Utah, to Chicago, to Los Angeles, and to the borax mines in the Mojave Desert, where he was a prospector for the Twenty Mule Team Borax Co. From there, after taking an active part in the politics of the then new town of Boron for some years, he went to Arkansas, then to Clinton, Iowa, then to a farm near Guthrie, Mo., where again his farming luck was against him and drought took all he had. But he bounced back, bought a secondhand store in Mokane, Mo., built it up and later sold it and bought (with his brother Charles⁵) an automatic laundry, which he is now operating successfully, having bought out his brother's interest after the first year. James⁵ has been active in Mokane politics and in 1961 was elected Mayor of the town.

For about 30 years, James⁵ has had a compelling interest in genealogy, and it was the materials which he furnished my mother on the family's history which stirred my interest in the subject, and which have made a large contribution to this summary.

m. 2 July 1890 to Mattie Cora Courts in Burlington, Iowa
d. 23 Oct. 1941 in Burlington, Iowa

William Ellery⁴ Le Hew, youngest child of Naomi³ and Abraham W. Le Hew, must have been named for the William Ellery Hanes who appears as a nineteen-year-old on the 1850 Census of Wetzel Co., Va. in the family group of Abraham² Hanes. This William Ellery Hanes does not seem to have been a member of Abraham's family, however, although I do not know who he was.

My mother has very fond memories of "Uncle Will" and "Aunt Mattie", who were closer to her than her own father was. Uncle Will lived with his brother John at the time of the 1880 Census (Henderson Co., Ill.) and the two brothers must have moved to Burlington, Ia. and then to Peoria at pretty much the same time. They purchased a lot in Burlington jointly in 1888, at which time both gave their residence as Des Moines Co., Iowa. (Burlington is in Des Moines County.) In March, 1890, when William bought out John's share of the lot, they both gave Des Moines Co. as their residence, but in July, 1890, when William sold the lot, he gave his address as Peoria Co., Illinois.

In Peoria, William was associated with his brother John in the Pickle Works of which John was President and Manager. Frank's Peoria City Directory lists William LeHew as a worker at Peoria Pickle Works in 1891 and 1892, residing at 203 Hancock in 1891 and at 627 Vine, Averyville, in 1892.

By 1899 William and wife Mattie had moved back to Burlington, Iowa. They were living there in 1899 when their signatures were required on a deed as heirs of A. W. LeHew, deceased.

For many years, Uncle Will was a streetcar conductor in Burlington, and was loved by all who rode the route--they called him "the smiling conductor." The story is told that one day Uncle Will, who was very careful of the safety of his passengers, was trying hard to get a bearded old man to sit down before he fell down, and when the man would not sit, Uncle Will grasped his whiskers and sat him down vigorously. A complaint was filed against Uncle Will by the old man, and Uncle Will was fired from his job. However, the "regulars" on the route would not let him go that easily, and they filed a petition to have Uncle Will reinstated--a petition which was granted. But Uncle Will by that time had decided that he had had enough of the old streetcar route and refused to go back.

ABRAHAM WASHINGTON³ - b. 23 April 1830
m. 18 Oct. 1853 to Sophia E. Leggett
d. 2 Sept. 1869

Abraham Washington³ Hanes is listed in his father's family group on the 1850 Census of Wetzel Co., Va., occupation farmer. In his 1902 letter, Alva Martin⁴ Hanes has this to say about his Uncle Washington Hanes and son Edgar (Abraham Washington³ seems to have been called Washington rather than Abraham): "Uncle Washington Hanes is the next that I know; he married Bob Leggett's sister, Sophia, and had two children, Edgar and Susan. They are all dead but Edgar and he is somewhere in Arkansas." And in the same letter--"Fall of '79 I went to Wheeling, worked in a hotel a week, shipped on a steamboat and played cook one trip, got on another and went to Louisville and back, then went to Pittsburgh with Edgar Hanes, a cousin, and shipped on a coal tower and made a round trip to Louisville."

In 1865 when Jacob³ Haynes (who seemed to prefer this spelling) was collecting powers of attorney empowering him to act for the others in the settling of their father's estate, Abraham Washington³ gave Jacob³ his power of attorney from Wetzel County, W. Va. In 1867 Washington³ bought out the shares of his sisters Maria (Jenkins) and Mary (Jacobs), so that when the final settlement was made Washington's children (the proceeds of the sale of the Ohio River property were distributed in 1871, two years after Washington³ had died) received those shares as well.

Abraham Washington³ Hanes' will was probated 18 Sept., 1869 in Wetzel Co., W. Va. He left all his property to his brother-in-law, Robert Leggett, as executor, with instructions to sell all property and deliver the proceeds to his wife and children (to their guardians if they were not of age). His wife died soon after him, and at the time of the partition suit referred to under Abraham², the children of Abraham Washington³ had a guardian by the name of Hall.

Descendants of John¹ and Mary Hanes

DAVID² - son of John¹

David², son of John¹ and Mary Hanes, was born 27 November, 1792, in Virginia. Whether he was born in that part of Virginia which is now West Virginia, I do not know. He is referred to in his father's will as one of the three youngest sons.

David² served in the War of 1812. Mary Hanes, a descendant who lives in Centerville, Iowa, has his old powder horn.

David² married Hannah Gorrell in Tyler County, Virginia. Hannah died 5 September, 1836 in Terre Haute, Indiana, and on 5 August, 1845, David² was married a second time, to Matilda (McBride) Golden, widow of Moses Golden.

The name David Hanes appears in the deed records of Tyler Co., (West Virginia now) from about 1820 to 1835. David Hanes had, according to the tax list of 1835, 229 acres of land on Point Pleasant, Tyler County, within two miles of the Courthouse; value $3.00 per acre; $40.00 added for buildings; total value of land and buildings, $727.00.

On the 1830 Census of Tyler County, Virginia, David Hains and family appear as follows:

Males: 2(5-10); 1(10-15); 1(30-40)
Females: 2 under 5; 1(40-50).

By 1835 or 1836 David² had migrated to Vermilion County, Indiana; by about 1847, to Van Buren Co., Iowa. He is listed on the 1850 Census of Van Buren County as a farmer, with real estate valued at $725. Before July, 1853 he had moved on to Appanoose County, Iowa. He died 16 December, 1856 in Centerville, Iowa, and is buried in the Haynes Cemetery near Centerville. His widow survived him. David's son-in-law, Samuel B. Cook, was appointed administrator of his estate. The following list showing the dower allotted David's widow from his estate is interesting:

1 wagon and team with the proper harness
1 cow and calf
20 head of sheep
5 head of hogs
Food enough to sustain the above described stock for 60 days
All the household and kitchen furniture
60 days provision for widow's stock, consisting of one stack of oats, two broken stacks of new hay and all the old hay
The pork of 3 hogs
1 bushel of salt
30 pounds of coffee
30 pounds of sugar
Flower (sic) and other groceries to the amount of $20.40.

m. 15 Aug. 1838 to Nancy Seegler (Sigler) in Vermilion Co., Ind.
d. 8 Sept. 1878 in Newman (Douglas Co.), Illinois

At the time of the 1860 Census, Robert³ Hanes was living in Douglas Co., Illinois, his postoffice Canargo (?). In 1866 he was living not far from Newman, Illinois, about a mile and a half from his half-sister Elizabeth³ (Hanes) White and her husband, according to a letter written by Elizabeth in 1866. The 1870 Census of Newman Township, Douglas Co., shows a Robert Hanes and wife Nancy, probably Robert³, although the ages do not show up distinctly enough to provide an age check. His death record (Newman, Ill.) says he had lived at Newman for 35 years.

Children of Robert³ and Nancy (Seegler) Hanes:

David⁴ - b. abt. 1839?
m. Amanda ()?
Mary⁴ - b. abt. 1845?
m. John Filler (or Fidler) before 1866

David⁴ and Mary⁴ are listed on the 1860 Census of Douglas County, Ill. in the family of Robert³ and Nancy Hanes. There are three other children listed with Robert's family, but they are probably not part of the family, as all have double names, the second of which may be a surname. They are Narcissa Grace, age 11?, David Ware, age 6 (obviously not a Hanes, as this would be the second David), and John Hobnett?, age unreadable.

Robert and David Hanes and Mary Fidler were parties to a real estate deal in Douglas Co. in 1875, and all gave Douglas Co. as their residence.

The following material on the family of John Wilder and Hannah³ (Hanes) Wilder was written by their granddaughter, Mona Wilder, of Redding, California:

"Tradition says that Hannah Hanes taught school before her marriage, while the family was living in Van Buren County, Iowa. She taught again, between 1862 and 1865, while John was serving in the Union forces. During the war she lived with John's parents and taught at Woodward's Mill, Putnam County, Mo. It is not known whether she lived with her parents or with his when John came to California the first time, 1853-1856.

"They came to Dixon, California in the spring of 1870, as soon as the railroad was completed. They lived briefly at Kanoya, Glenn County and at Paskenta, Tehama County. By March, 1874, they were living in Bald Hills district, near the present town of Ono, Shasta County. There John farmed and had a blacksmith shop. The native stone chimney which he built is still standing to mark the site of their home, although the house has been gone many years.

"Mrs. Lillie Bedford, who was my father's first teacher, knew Hannah quite well and described her as 'a woman far ahead of her times' as evidenced in the care she gave her children. Mrs. Bedford said Hannah's children had been taught courtesies and habits that few children in the neighborhood had been taught. One thing that she had remembered for over seventy years and told us about were the carefully packed lunches the little Wilders brought to school, 'with sandwiches carefully wrapped in snow white napkins.'

"It was a good many miles to the nearest church, so Hannah started a Sunday School and soon enrolled most of the neighborhood children; she felt it was a necessary part of her children's training. I regret that I don't know with which church she was affiliated. Perhaps with the United Brethren, the one of her brother Peter's ministry.

". When Hannah passed on, Lora was sent to live with Mrs. Parsons. The little boys, Bill and Frank, stayed with their father. After a few years, . . . John moved to Ono and owned a blacksmith shop there. The boys helped in the shop, although Frank lived with the Robinson family a large part of the first years after Hannah passed on.

"Bill worked in the Ono shop until 1891, spent a year in Paskenta, returned to Ono briefly, and then moved to Anderson where he lived until 1918. With the change of times, he changed from the occupation of blacksmith and wagon maker to automobile repairs. During World War I he moved to Vallejo, California, to work in the shipyards, and remained there."

"Frank, after his marriage, moved to the neighboring community of Watson Gulch, where he had a homestead and worked for a nearby rancher. In 1896 he and William Menzel formed a partnership and began cattle raising on a rather large scale, on what is still known as the Menzel Ranch, at Watson Gulch. In 1910, when Mr. Menzel passed away, my father sold his interest to the Menzel Estate and continued at the ranch as manager. He was an active Mason, a Scot, and an Eastern Star member. He registered as a Democrat but was not greatly interested in politics. He had no church affiliation."

"We (Delia and Mona) grew up on the ranch (at Watson Gulch), learned to ride and to herd cattle also; we were skillful enough that the men liked to have our assistance at busy seasons.

"We are retired elementary school teachers, each having taught 39 years. We are both Eastern Star members and I am a DAR. I attend Christian Science Church, am interested in the Historical Society activities, and am an active worker in the local S.P.C.A. - still like animals."

Descendants of John¹ and Mary Hanes

NATHAN² - son of John¹

Nathan² Hanes is mentioned in the 1815 will of John¹ as one of the three youngest sons. His name appears on the 1830 Census of Tyler County, Virginia, as follows:

Nathan Hains Males: 1 under 5; 1(5-10); 1(30-40).
Females: 1 under 5; 1(30-40).

We know from the 1850 Census and from land grant records that there was a fourth child born after 1830. Hardesty in his section on Personal History of Tyler County (Hardesty's Historical and Biographical Encyclopedia, 1883) has an article on Lorenzo Cain and wife Emzy (daughter of Nathan² Hanes) in which he gives Nathan's birth as 12 June, 1796 in what is now West Virginia, and his death as 15 September, 1840 in Harrison County, Virginia. Irving P. Beckett, of Craig, Colorado, says his greatgrandfather, Nathan² Hanes, was born in 1795 and had his first home (after he was married?) near Middlebourne, Va. "He was a brickmaker and layer by trade, also a carpenter and farmer. In 1840 at the age of 45 years, he died and was buried at Clarksburg, Virginia." (Irving P. Beckett). Mr. Beckett has a copy of a contract which Nathan² entered into in 1828, to build a brick house on Short Run near the Doddridge County line. This house was built by Nathan² Hanes and his son Calvin and still stands in good condition.

The 1850 Census of Doddridge County, Virginia lists Priscilla Hanes and three sons: Calvin, age 25, a farmer; Oliver, age 20, a farmer, and Mason, age 14.

Nathan² Hanes and Priscilla Nixon were married 18 Dec. 1823 in Belmont County, Ohio. Whether they lived there after their marriage, I do not know, but the record of their marriage is among the county records. There are land records in the name of Nathan Hanes in Tyler County, Virginia, from 1820 to 1838, but I could find none in his name in Belmont County. At least one of his brothers (Jacob²) lived in Belmont County, however.

In 1835, Nathan² Hanes, by virtue of Virginia Land Office Treasury Warrants Nos. 10,822 and 10,914, purchased by him, was granted 200 acres of land on the waters of Short Run of Arnold's Creek in Tyler County, Virginia. He must have held other Treasury Warrants (Nos. 14,371; 19,499; 14,465; and 19,480) for lands which had not yet been claimed at the time of his death, for in conformity with a survey in 1851, there was granted by the Commonwealth of Virginia to Nathan Hanes' heirs--Calvin Hanes, Emsy Hanes, Mason S. Hanes, and Oliver Hanes, 605 acres on the waters of Short Run of Arnold's Creek, Tyler County, some of this land bordering on property of Nathan Hanes (the 1835 piece?) and on property of Josiah H. Shinn and Joseph Doak.

The record of the appraisement and sale of Nathan² Hanes' personal property is in Tyler Co., W. Va. Estate and Settlement Book 2A, pp. 123ff, November 1840. Abraham Hanes and Priscilla Hanes were administrators.

Calvin³ Hanes had a grant of land (409 acres) on Short Run and Mud Lick Run, waters of Arnold's Creek, by virtue of Land Office Treasury Warrants issued to him and Alpheus Canaway (as it was spelled in the land grant record) and surveyed in 1854. There must have been other land purchased or granted to him, for his grandson, Irving Pierce Beckett, says of his grandfather: "He and Adolphus Conway owned or controlled some thousand acres of state land on the head waters of Short Run and Mudlick Run which are tributaries of Arnold's Creek. In their final division by sales and partition, my grandfather took for his permanent farm and home 250 acres some 2 miles west of Deep Valley, all in Tyler County. Here he lived and raised his family after 1852 until death, March 31, 1898. Grandmother died in March, 1905, and this farm was divided among the seven children without a family quarrel."

An interesting story is told in connection with the name "Deep Valley". They say that it was once called "Lick Skillet." When the residents submitted the name "Lick Skillet" at the time of incorporation, the authorities refused to accept such a name, and "Deep Valley" was substituted.

We lived there until March, 1906. My sister Alice, we call her Addie, has owned this farm for many years. She wants to pass it on to her son." The Becketts evidently moved from there to Athens County, Ohio, for again quoting Irving Pierce Beckett: "Our father, William B. his brother, Judge Horatio Wilson⁴ Hanes, John Nixon⁴ Hanes was pastor of the United Brethren Church at Longmont, Colorado (1915). John Nixon⁴ Hanes went to Colorado from West Virginia in 1904 because of his wife's health. His daughter Creta⁵ (Hanes) Bruner (now living in Colorado Springs) says that in 1926 they went back to West Virginia for a visit and went to the old Hanes place on Middle Island Creek at a place where there is a big loop in the creek called "The Jug" (near Middlebourne). This was the home of her father's grandfather or greatgrandfather (she wasn't sure which). Creta thinks there were some graves on a hill just above the house.

d. after 1908?

Emzy³ was one of the heirs who shared in the land grants mentioned under Nathan² as being on Arnold's Creek in Tyler County. This was very near the border of Doddridge County, and Hardesty (1883) in his article on Lorenzo D. Cain, says "Lorenzo D. Cain owns and carries on a farm in Centreville District, Tyler County, with his postoffice address at Central Station, Doddridge County, West Virginia." The data on the children of Emzy B.³ (Hanes) and Lorenzo Cain (sometimes referred to as Lorenzo Dotson in the records) is also taken from Hardesty. Emzy and her husband lived about a mile east of Emzy's brother Calvin³.

Oliver³ Hanes is listed on the 1850 Census of Doddridge County, Va. as a twenty-year-old, in the family of Priscilla Hanes. He is listed as a farmer, born in Virginia. He was still a resident of Doddridge County in 1854 when he and his brother Mason Hanes bought land in Doddridge and Tyler Counties from Calvin³ and Emzy³. Hardesty's article on Emzy³ referred to above says Emzy's brother Oliver fought in the Civil War. The article does not say which side, however. The National Archives has no record of Oliver's service.

The last real estate record I have found on Oliver is for 1898 in the West Union District of Doddridge County. This record is of a sale of property, and there is no wife mentioned, although this was usually the case when a married man sold property, from which I assume that he was single.

Mason Stork³ Hanes may have been named for the Mason Stork whose name appears so frequently in the records of Tyler County. Perhaps Mason Stork was a good friend of Nathan². Mason Hanes is listed with his mother and two brothers on the 1850 Census of Doddridge County, Va., as a farmer, born in Virginia. Mason³ was one of the heirs of Nathan² who claimed property on Arnold's Creek by virtue of Nathan's Treasury Warrants mentioned under Nathan². His marriage to Lucinda Doak is recorded in Marriage Book 1-a, p. 150 (Doddridge County, 1867). Births of their children are recorded in Doddridge County from 1868 to 1884.

Mason Stork³ Hanes died May 8, 1905 of dropsy and head trouble. His death record (Doddridge Co.) says he was 73 years old and had been a lifelong resident of West Virginia. He died on Arnold's Creek and was buried there. His will was probated in Doddridge County in 1905. (Bk. 2, p. 111)

Ivy Myrtle⁴ (Hanes) Ramsey lived in West Union, Doddridge Co., W. Va. Her husband was an attorney. Mrs. Ramsey did some research on the Hanes family, some of which has been incorporated into this summary. Her cousin, John Nixon⁴ Hanes, visited her in 1952, so it must have been after this that she died.

Ardenne⁴ Hanes is a retired minister, now living in Brownsville, Pennsylvania (1962). Although officially retired, he is still very active in church work. It was he who supplied me with a copy of his brother B. E. Hanes' book on the Doak family, from which most of this section was taken, and I am very grateful to him.

Descendants of John¹ and Mary Hanes

PETER² - son of John¹

Peter² Hanes is mentioned in the will of John¹ as one of the three youngest sons. The dates of birth of David² and Nathan², the other two mentioned among the three youngest sons, have been ascertained, and it becomes evident that Peter² was the youngest son. Peter's name appears on the 1830 Census of Tyler Co., Va. as follows:

Peter Hains ~ Males: 2(under 5); 1(30-40)
 Females: 1(20-30)

Peter² Hanes was in Cincinnati, Ohio, in 1846 when he wrote a letter to his brother David², which is still treasured by David's greatgrandson, Francis P. Hanes, of Albany, Oregon. This letter, which mentions brothers Abraham and Jacob, establishes Peter as one of the sons of John¹. A study of the 1850 Census of Cincinnati and the surrounding county of Hamilton reveals the listing of Peter² Hanes and his household in Fulton Township (probably a part of the city of Cincinnati now, as it does not show up on later township maps), as follows:

Peter Haines	age 50	Laborer	Born in Penna.
Ruth Haines	43		" " Va.
Elizabeth A. Haines	19		" " Va.
Charles Haines	21	Sailor	" " Va.
Oliver P. Haines	3		" " Ohio
Morris Baker	2		" " Ohio

Note that Peter's age in this listing indicates that he was born about 1800, in Pennsylvania. A comparison of the 1830 and 1850 Census listings for Peter suggests that one son was no longer living at home. Whether the three-year-old Oliver P. Haines listed among the family was a son or grandson of Peter, I do not know. I have begun a correspondence with Victor Wilson Hanes of Cincinnati, a grandson of Oliver Perry Hanes, and hope soon to have more information on this family.

Peter Hanes and his wife Ruth appear as grantors in the real estate records in Tyler Co., W. Va. One record of a sale of land in 1831 by Peter and Ruth Hanes, and others by the name of Baker, indicates that this land was inherited by Ruth and the others from one Morris Baker. From this, and from the presence of a two-year-old Morris Baker in the household of Peter² and Ruth Hanes in 1850, it seems likely that Ruth's maiden name was Baker. Perhaps the two-year-old Baker was a nephew.

Children of Peter² and Ruth (Baker?) Hanes:

SON - born before 1830, name unknown

CHARLES³ - b. abt. 1829 in Va.

ELIZABETH A.³ - b. abt. 1831 in Va.

Others?

Others?

(Note: This listing of Peter's children is based on the census. Elizabeth A. could have been a daughter-in-law of Peter², and Oliver Perry³ could have been a son of Peter's other son--in which case the other son would also have been named Peter, as Victor Wilson Hanes gives his greatgrandfather's name as Peter Hanes.)

QUERIES

Henderson County Records

Wm. Haines, age 71 yrs. 6 mo. 11 days, died 28 May, 1891 in Rozetta District. Record says Wm. was born in Ohio. Is it merely coincidence that Wm. died in the same township where mother of compiler was born in 1883?

Amos Haines - will filed Sept. 17, 1855.

Joel Haines (wife Sarah Ann) died intestate in 1854.

Allen Haines and Penley Haines (real estate transaction in 1842).

Biographical Record of Hancock, McDonough and Henderson Counties, Illinois (Lake City Publishing Co., Chicago, 1894):

Amos Haines had land in Pickaway Co., Ohio - sold out in 1840 and settled in Rozetta Township, Henderson Co., Ill. Children of Amos Haines: Mary J., d. before 1894; Sarah, married George Palmer; Hugh, of Henderson Co., in 1894; John M., of Rozetta Township, Henderson Co., 1894; Newton, of Rozetta Township, 1894; Emma.

Van Buren and Appanoose Counties, Iowa

Biographical and Historical Record of Wayne and Appanoose Counties, Iowa (Inter-state Publishing Co., 113 Adams St., Chicago, 1886).

Colonel Eugene C. Haynes (born 1844 in Abingdon, Ill.) and his father, the Rev. Cyrus Haynes, were in Van Buren Co. and in Centerville, Appanoose Co., Iowa about the same time as our David². Is this merely coincidence? The Rev. Cyrus Haynes was a native of Tennessee and of Scotch descent, according to the above source. Children of Col. Eugene C. Haynes: Henry C., Bessie L., Glenn C., Lee R., Olive, Eugene C.

1870 Census, Walnut Township, Centerville Postoffice, Appanoose Co.

Abraham Haines	age 62	Farmer	born in Penna.
Mary	60		"
Silas	19		W. Va.
Ellen	20		"
Abraham T.	17		"

The above family was in Marion Co. Va. (now W. Va.) at the time of the 1850 Census, as follows:

Marion County, Va.

1850 Census, Marion County, Va.

Abraham Haines	43	Farmer	born in Penna.
Mary	39		Va.
David	19		Penna.
Isaac	18		Va.

Elizabeth	14		"
Susan	12		"
Jesse	11		"
Wm.	9		"
Alexander	7		"
Elsy Jane	5		"
John	3		"
Ellen	2		"

Elizabeth, daughter of Abraham and Mary, married Jackson Ferrell in Wetzel Co., Va. in 1854. The record states that Elizabeth was born in Monongalia Co., Va. Susan Hanes, above, married Reuben Anderson in Wetzel Co. in 1857. The record states that she was born in Marion Co., Va. It looks as though Abraham Haines (Hanes?), above, was born in Pennsylvania about 1807 or 1808, was in Monongalia Co., Va. by 1836 (probably by 1832), in Marion Co., Va. by 1837, and in Wetzel Co., Va., by 1854, and went to Appanoose Co., Iowa, sometime after 1857. He is called Rev. Abraham Hanes (or Haines) in some records.

Can anyone give Abraham's father's name and a definite birthplace in Pennsylvania? Could he possibly be a grandson of John¹ Hanes of this report?

Douglas County, Illinois

Who was the Robert Hanes who married one Clarissa--and was in Douglas Co., Illinois in 1875? One Clarissa Haines, widow, age 58, identified as "Mother-in-law" appears on the 1880 Census of Douglas Co. in the family of Jesse and Alice Sigler in Newman Township, Douglas Co., Illinois. Compare section on Robert³ Hanes, son of David², this report.

Marion County, W. Va.

Who was Dempsey Hanes, farmer, Paw Paw District, Marion Co., W. Va.? (Marion Co. records show a son, David P., born to him and wife Similda June 11, 1888).

Warren County, Illinois

Can anyone identify any of the following names, which appear in Warren Co., Illinois records:

1840's or earlier: Wm. Haines, Allen Haines, Penley Haines, James P. Haynes, Reuben Haines, Lucinda Hanes.

31 Dec. 1883 - Merit A. Haynes died in Warren Co.

28 Aug. 1910 - Abraham A. Haynes, born in Kentucky, died in Warren Co.
